John Chandler, who was arrested on Sunday afternoon on a charge filed by his wife, who accused him of beating her, was charged after a hearing in police court. The wife was the principal petitioner for mercy and the court limited to her plea. Within a few hours he was taken into custody on the charge of intoxication. His second arrest was due to a sudden ambition to celebrate his release by drinking. He was released with his wife. He will now have to elect a fine of $10.70.

Ed Fuse and George H. Hathaway were severely bruised in a runaway yesterday afternoon. The runaway occurred in the vicinity of the Rock Island railway depot. The men were driving a single horse to a light buggy. The horse, which was named "Bugsy," was running wild and in attempting to control it one of the lines broke. The horse then ran up the street at full speed. In making a short turn, the buggy overturned and the men were thrown upon the granite paving with great force, receiving severe bruises and sprains, but escaping without broken bones.

Hathaway is an engineer and is here on one of the Mexican railroads and is here on a short visit to his relatives in this city.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT THE FAIR.
Plenty of Entertainment Furnished.

There was a large attendance last night at the Catholic fair. The feature of the special program was W. Wollman and his phonograph. The large hall in the Odd Fellows' block is filled with booths, where are displayed many beautiful bits of real art work contributed by the women and any quantity of solid and substantial articles donated by business men. The booths are all beautifully decorated. The chief booths are the married women's booth, the young women's booth, a bower of delicate beauty wrought of soft, fleecy pink material, and the young girls' booth, where there is a great display of Christmas and useful articles. A gypsy tent, made of black cloth, covered with gold tinsel and spangles, is also conspicuous. One of the most popular places is the refreshment table presided over by Mrs. H. A. Pierce and Mrs. McMenomy. The fair will continue all the week, with a change of program each evening. Tonight the feature will be "a ridiculous social," where the person wearing the most absurd costume will win the prize offered.

City Council Meeting.
The city council held a brief special session last night. The streets and alleys committees reported that the repairs to the Tenth avenue bridge over Indian creek would cost more than the committee was allowed to expend without authority from the regular council. A resolution was passed directing the committee to do the work necessary.

The St. John's English Lutheran church society called attention to an error in the city assessor in returning a vacant lot owned by the society for taxation as improved property, thereby adding two or three times the amount of tax levied. The society is assessed against it. The council ordered the correction to be made.

After the conclusion of the session, the special committee, charged with the work of recommending to the next fiscal year met in the mayor's office. It was practically decided to require all of the made of departments to begin the work of making estimates of the amount of supplies that will be required during the year.

CHARGES THE GRAND JURY

Judge Thornell Sets the Task Before the County Inquisition.

SALOON KEEPS THE SPECIAL OBJECT

Instructions to the Effect that All Must Be Inquired Into as to Their Observance of the Law.

Judge Thornell yesterday convened the January term of the district court. The only work of the day consisted of the swearing in of the grand jurors and the charges to them and making the first assignment of cases. The chief interest centered in the charge to the grand jury at the last term of the district court by Judge Green resulted in the statement of the gamblers in the city and suppression of the slot machines. In Thornell's instructions attention is called to the fact that a large number, if not all, of the saloons in the county are conducted in violation of the provisions of the mulct law, which rendered the men conducting them liable to prosecution. The court pointed out the duty of the jury under their oath to inquire into all cases of infraction of the law.

The court, however, took one occasion to caution the jury that matters of this kind should be approached with the same spirit and considered in the same manner as the members of the jury in their own private business affairs, with candor and fairness.

The docket for the January term is very heavy and if all of the cases reach a hearing the term will be prolonged well into the spring months and up to the date of the beginning of the May term. The cases that will come to trial in the suit brought by Deere, Wells & company against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway company for damages for the destruction of the big implement warehouses on South Main street two years ago. The amount sued for is $140,000. The efforts of the railway company to secure the removal of the case from the state to the federal court have failed, judges on both benches refusing to make the order for removal.

Another case will be the hearing of the cases against the Omaha & Council Bluffs Railway and Bridge company. Both of these are suits instituted to annul the charter granted by the city council at the last moment it had the power to exercise such authority. The first was instituted by the attorneys of C. C. Bump, a property owner living in the east part of town, which was started immediately after the charter was granted, and the other is a quo warranto proceeding instituted in the name of the state. Half a dozen lawyers will be employed on either side of the case. The plaintiffs allege in their petitions that the charter granted by the city council is against public policy and the council exceeded its power when it gave the company the extension.

BURGULARS WORK AT LEISURE.

Take in the Town Thoroughly and Steal Many Valuables.

The burglars have been experiencing a little run of highly successful burglaries during the last few days. Three complaints were made to the police yesterday by citizens whose houses had been entered during the previous night and robbed of contents more or less valuable.

I. S. Beck, chief clerk at the Rock Island freight house, called at the station at 11 o'clock yesterday and gave the details of a successful raid upon his home at 729 Seventh avenue. He reported that a burglar had entered the house during the night, had broken into the bedroom windows had been raising during the absence of the family, had taken a gold watch, with a valuable chain attached, belonging to Mrs. Beck, was missing, but the burglar had been seen by the presence of burglars and the members of the family retired without arriving at the conclusion that the place had been visited during their absence. When morning came, however, the presence of a strange axe and No. 9 footprints underneath the window, with corresponding muddy tracks on the bedroom carpet led to the discovery that the burglar had been up to pry up the window from the outside. The watch was the only thing taken.

On the same night the residence of Dr. L. E. Roe, within a block and a half of this place, was entered in the same manner during the absence of the family. The burglar had been seen by the presence of burglars and the members of the family retired without arriving at the conclusion that the place had been visited during their absence. When morning came, however, the presence of a strange axe and No. 9 footprints underneath the window, with corresponding muddy tracks on the bedroom carpet led to the discovery that the burglar had been up to pry up the window from the outside. The watch was the only thing taken.
